Author, The Heart of Leadership: How to Inspire, Encourage and Motivate People to Follow You

For over 30 years, Elizabeth has worked with healthcare and business executives who want to master their connection with others and turn ALL their leaders into high performers. From General Electric to the Crystal Cathedral, and from the American Hospital Association to the famed Churchill Downs, her clients are leaders in their fields.

An award winning speaker and author, Elizabeth shares ideas and teaches skills on how to get better results through building relationships. She presents keynote speeches, conducts relationship building seminars and retreats, and coaches executives in the way of a servant-leader. She is the author of several leadership books and is a regular contributor to professional periodicals and business magazines.

Personal Information

Married to husband Stephen Tweed in their Louisville, KY home.
Loves traveling in Italy and exploring its history, churches, people, and food. She recently spent a three-month sabbatical living among the Italians in beautiful Florence in an old Palazzo. She was joined periodically in the adventure by her husband. Her travels are documented in a best-selling Amazon e-book 90 Days in Florence: Diary of an Italian Adventure in Tuscany!
